"I don't care a snap what the newspapers say about the selectmen's mileage. I am ready to meet all charges. I can make more money outside the county court than in it. Some people are trying to frighten us out of our work we have begun."

The above is a remark made by Martin Christopherson at the meeting of the of taking up the time of the county court now the committee might discuss things among themselves in a short time.

Selectman Geddes piped out something about a hue and cry in "some news-papers" and announced himself as willing meet any taxpayer and answer any "The sellectmen must get out over the county and see what is pended on the roads and bridges last year. They confined their labors to these gigantic schemes—for what I do not say, The consequence was that the roads and bridges are in bad condition every- to the call of the chair.

No one has contended that Christopherson does care a snap or that Geddes is not willing to answer all challenges. But subjoined are a few facts, obtained from the records which are challenged for explanation.

Why was an order for $5 worth of merchandise, dated February 2, on Harnes, Hardy & Co., given to J. C. Sandberg and charged to pauper account when this beneficiary is in the employ of the county?

It is not to be presumed, in the light of past experience, that the selectmen will change the inexplicable methods regarding payment of certain accounts, but so On the U. P. He voted for the present body of tonight, as his companions would have selectmen and had perfect confidence in to be soberer before anything definite them, and he did not understand what the in to be soberer before anything definite le committee was appointed for unless it was to help call a new bond election. If such were the case he was quite willing to co-operate with the county court; otherwise, he for one desired to with-draw from the committee. As to the investigation that was now going forward into the county's affairs, he considered it was the duty of the selectmen to take it into their own hands. Selectman Geddes, in the course of 3 Selectmen and Attorney Will Re-brief statement, said the selectmen had sume inquiry Today. now nothing particular to rec he remarked that when he and his col-leagues came into office they found the county in a peculiar condition. Whether mistaken or not, they thought it was their duty to let the taxpayers know just how the affairs of the county stood, deeming that the late board had far exceded the legal limit of indebtedness. The selectmen therefore thought it time vigilant and efficient men who have been to call a halt and institute proceedings to ascertain their legal status. Afterwards of "hot stuff" is expected as a result. it was found that the purchasing power of the county had been very much impaired. The present county court was of the county had been very much inpaired. The present county court was willing to assume the unpleasantness which would follow an investigation, and a taxpayers' meeting was called. Mr.

payers on the bond question any said they having expressed an opinion adverse to the feeling of the board, the latter had since been trying to act in accordance with what was believed to be their desires. If this committee deemed it proper to call another bond election on their own responsibility—with the understanding that the county court had no share in it, for they had sone their part in that regard already—all well and good; then the selectmen would co-operate with them in acting for the best interests of the county. But the responsibility now rested with the taxpayers. As to the investigation now in progress, it was very difficult to procure evidence; still, it was the sense of the court that that inquiry should be continued in a limited way, as fast as testimony could be secured. The State road matter would have been wound up before this and taken into the courts but for the fact that a gentleman who was wanted as a witness had sought protection in the convention, of which ise is a delegate; and hence the selectmen thought it better to let it temporarily stand over. The county court would be glad for the committee to make suggestions in reference to the salaries of the county officers were setting too much for their services. If the committee winded to make any recommendations as to that and other questions the selectmen would be glad for the committee winded to make any recommendations as to that and other questions the selectmen would be glad to recommendations as to that and other questions the selectmen would be glad to receive them.
